Weddings Business Functions Special Events Accommodations

For almost 80 years, the International House has fostered intellectual respect and understanding through the promotion of a more tolerant and peaceful world. The House achieves its mission by providing students and scholars from the United States and around the world with an opportunity to live and learn together under the same roof. Its resources and activities are designed to stimulate diversity of thought and experience among residents, alumni, members of the campus, and the Bay Area community. International House is an independent, self-supporting, non-profit organization located on the University of California, Berkeley campus. This architecturally significant housing complex has been called home by students that have gone on to become prominent politicians, ambassadors, and Nobel Laureates.

And what a home it is! Built in 1930, the Spanish Mission Revival-style structure not only houses 600 students at a time, but has some exceptionally handsome spaces available for weddings, corporate functions and special events. Enclosed by stone walls softened by lacy palms, the brick-paved Clarence E. Heller Patio offers a peaceful, olive tree-shaded outdoor setting for ceremonies or informal receptions. For large banquets or awards ceremonies, the splendid Chevron Auditorium showcases the building's Spanish/Moorish influences. Multiple wrought-iron chandeliers hang from an ornately hand-painted ceiling, softly illuminating the hardwood floors below. Dark wood wainscoting, arched windows, and walls defined with Moorish arches and rust, and beige and black banners are additional elements. A raised theatrical stage at one end provides ample room for musicians or a head table; the spacious hardwood floor can accommodate both diners and dancers. The stage is also equipped with a sound system, stage lighting and movie screen for performances or symposiums. The adjacent Slusser Room, with its intimate proportions, wood wainscoting and long, mahogany banquet table, is eminently suitable for pre-party gatherings, rehearsal dinners, or company conferences.

For small gatherings, workshops or meetings, the Golub Home Room features antique furnishings, a grand piano, a large decorative fireplace, a Bay-and-Bridge view balcony, and a painted ceiling adapted from the Chapel in the Cathedral at Toledo, Spain. The Home Room is reminiscent of an inviting, elegant living room, just right for afternoon buffets or intimate, candlelit dinners. And should you desire a menu more exotic than the usual roast beef or chicken, the in-house catering department just happens to specialize in international cuisines--after all, it regularly satisfies the appetites of students so diverse that the International House has been dubbed "a mini-U.N." For a company event or personal celebration with a sophisticated multicultural flair, the International House provides just the right setting.
